A Cable Survey Made From Monterey Bay to Diamond Head.

The U. S. S. Albatross steamed into the harbor Saturday afternoon, and anchored to the right of the Pensacola. The Albatross has been in the service of the U.S. Fish Commission for some years, and was turned over to the Navy Department on September 10th last, for the purpose of making a survey for the proposed cable between the United States and this country. She is an iron vessel of 364 tons register, was built in 1882, and has been commanded since she was built by Lieut.-Commander Z. L. Tanner. U.S. N. The voyage to this port occupied about seventeen days, and the vessel is expected to remain in port for about two weeks. She is to make a second survey on her return

Lieut. Tanner, in response to inquiries by an ADVERTISER reporter, stated that a preliminary survey of 850 miles off the coast of California had been made with a view to finding the best starting point for the cable. In his opinion Salinas Landing in the Bay of Monterey would be most suitable. San Francisco, owing to the rough coast, the bar and frequent inevitable fouling of the cable by ships' anchors, would not be at all adapted to the purpose. Lieut. Tanner stated further that there was no reason in his opinion why the cable could not be laid: there would be several difficulties to overcome but only such as are usual in laying deep sea cables. The greatest depth reached was 3100 fathoms, the average being about 2500. About 250 soundings had been taken on the way down, the last off Diamond Head where a depth of 350 fathoms was found.

The vessel took the great circle course coming down and would make another survey going up, taking a straight course, a plumb line as it is nautically termed.

After leaving this port the Albatross would cruise around the island Dickey, at Hamakuapoko, who has a to determine the best point for landing the cable.

The following are the officers of the Albatross: Lieutenant Commander Z. L. Tanner, U. S. N., commanding. Lieut, C. G. Calkins, U. S. N., Executive and Navigating Officer. Ensigns H. B. Wilson, U. S. N. W. B. Fletcher, U. S. N., E. A. Anderson, U. S. N., and W. G. Miller,

DEATH OF AN OLD KAMA-AINA.

Sunday at about 9 o'clock P.M. Jno. P. Parker, the uncle of Hon. Sam Parker, died at the residence of the latter on King street. The cause of his death seems to have been old age and general debility. He was born November 25, 1827, at Kohala, Hawaii, but removed to Waimea in early youth, where he has since resided, being the owner, in connection with he has being living in Honolulu. He was a son of the John Parker whose name figures so largely in early Ha-walian history. Jno. Parker was appointed by Lunalilo a member of the House of Nobles, and he stood in that capacity during two reigns. He had one brother and one sister, both long since deceased, and leaves a widow

The deceased was a Hawaiian of the best type; a member of the church at Waimea, a thoroughly upright man. He never used intoxicants in any form. He was very hospitable, entertaining a great deal, and during the terms of the Court, judges, lawyers and others have always found with him a cordial welcome. Services will be held at the residence on Tuesday at 4 P. M., and all ly are invited to be present. The burial is to be at Waimea.

A Little Information Regarding Our Late Visitors.

According to the accounts published in late Sydney papers, Davis and Bell alias Bloom and Douglas were interested in the Australian Mercantile and Guarantee Association, and defrauded them out of large sums of money through the assistance of James Millar, the Manager of the Association. Millar and a director of the company were ar-rested, tried and sentenced to seven years apiece at hard labor.

Millar testified that he had been in the habit of cashing personal checks for Davis and Bell, and at their request did not present them at the bank or before the directors of the company.

In this manner the Beagle boodlers got away with a sum of money estimated at about £25,000. Just be-fore they left the Colonies, they had the obliging Millar cash a check for £6335, and skipped off.

Sugar. A syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists to-day purchased a controlling interest in the Baltimore Sugar Refinery. The capital stock is $1,000,000, of which the syndicate have secured shares representing $550,000. The stock cost them nearly $700,000. A prominent director of the refinery said: "It is not known whether the purchasers are interested in the Sugar Trust or not. They agreed to put additional capital into the refinery, erect needed buildings and increase the output."

The Chino beet factory at Chino, Cal., has closed down for the season, notwithstanding that there are many acres of land still unharvested. Different reasons are assigned for stopping, one being that the beets do not contain the necessary amount of sugar, and another is that too much syrup has accumulated and the law does not allow this to be kept over the end of the year without being worked. The closing down has caused widespread dissatisfaction among the farmers, who understood that the factory would furnish all this year's market for Blaine After a Coaling Station. Washington, Nov. 6.—It would be no surprise if Secretary Blaine an-nounced that he has successfully negotiated for the purchase of an island in the South Pacific as a naval coaling station, handy to Chile or any other obstreperous South American country. Correspondence looking toward such a purchase has been in progress opportunity of expressing a solemn for some time and the Secretary is now reviewing the entire subject with a view to seeing what island is available in case of emergency.

The Falkland Islands give Great Britain a coaling station within four days of Chile, and she has other islands not much further off; but the United States is entirely without coalare forcibly removed from their This has the practical effect of shut-homes, unless and until Ing out the United States war vessels from South American waters. In the correspondence which the State Department has had, the desire has been to secure an island in the Gulf of Panama, or at some point about equidistant between North and South America. The little island of Tobaga, in the Gulf of Panama, can be secured for almost nothing. It is said to be one of the best harbors in the Pacific and the surrounding waters of the guif would afford a fine rendezvous for a fleet. It is owned by Americans living in Columbia, interested in in the worst and most distressing the Pacific mercantile trade, who are willing to give it to this country at a nominal figure in order that their interests may be protected by the establishment of such a station.

Other islands which are looked after are those in the Galapagos group, off the coast of Ecuador. They are owned by Ecuador and it is believed that the strained financial condition of that country would lead her to part with one of them for a small consideration. With one of these islands owned by the United States our naval vessels would have a coaling station only 300 miles west of the South American coast and within three or four days run, at the farthest, of any of the South American republics.

The urgent need of such a station is being made very clear to naval authori ties by the present trouble with Chile. It is frequently asserted that it is im-possible for the United States to secure a coal island in the South Pacific, but Secretary Blaine's correspondence has made it clear that there are several of these available at very small cost.

Delightful Entertainment Given By Mr. and Mrs. Herbert At Kalihi.

A barbecue, a good old-fashioned barbecue, is a novelty in Honolulu, but a very agreeable one, as those who attended the delightful party given by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Herbert at their Kalihi place last Saturday, all with one voice, bear witness. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the guests began to gather, until as many as 150 were scattered in chatty groups under the trees on the lawn. Of course the objective point of all curious people, and that included everybody, was the roasted ox. An unerring nose soon guided the writer to the spot where the mighty ox had been sacrificed to feed the multitude. There he hung in mid-air, pierced by a huge spit, with his legs drawn up as though to escape the heat proceed-ing from the bed of coals which glowed fiercely in a hollow under him. The writer did not arrive in time to see the preliminary preparations, but a gentleman from old Kentucky, who was "raised" on barbecues, kindly vouchsafed an explanation. It appears that the animal is spitted whole, that he really draws up his four legs—something like a squid—to get away from the heat, and that in the course of the meeting the superfluous horns. of the roasting the superfluous horns, hoofs, etc., drop off and disappear. The same truthful witness avers that nothing was wanting to make this barbecue perfect but the "aromatic nigger;" a loss on account of which those who prefer the aroma of good roast beef were not inconsolable.

The mighty morsel was finally pronounced by connoisseurs to be done. and was removed to one of the fern-decked tables, where the Attorney-General, who, as a carver, is above re-proach, armed himself with a long knife and proceeded to the work of dissection. And now ensued a scene of pillage. Grave members of the bar and various dignitaries were seen to capture and escape with a huge rib, anxious perhaps to sate their palates, perhaps to "try a prentice hand" at the miracle of creation. The guests placed themselves at the tables or sat down in groups on the long grass, where the ladies were fed not merely with juicy roast, but many other good things-fowl and chowder, etc., etc.

After the feeding of the multitude, there must have been at least twelve baskets full of the fragments gathered

A dancing floor had been improvised under the shade of the friendly algarobas, and the Quintette Club played at intervals during the afternoon. The floor was well patronized, but most of the guests preferred lazily to enjoy the pretty sight presented by the declining sun, the long shadows, the groups dispersed picture county was the laws the picturesquely over the lawn, the as far as Maonakamalic below the Go gleam of the white dresses of dancers under the trees.

An accident to the carriage of Mr. Jno. Wright, threatened to disturb the festivities. Something frightened the horses-a fine pair of blacks-and they began pulling in opposite direc-tions with more zeal than discretion. One of them "skinned" out of the eutire harness, even to the collar. other horse was seized by W. T. Monsarrat and held with a firm arm. When the fiery steed saw the tall form of that gentleman towering above him, he was completely cowed. The pole of the carriage was broken, but luckily there was no general stampede. This was the only casualty of the afternoon, if we except an attempt made by a hackman to drive over a wheelbarrow, which was not followed by any tragic results.

About 5 o'clock, the guests dispersed with thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert for a "jolly good time."
